PACIFIC COAST TERMINALS WINS PRESTIGIOUS INTERNATIONAL BULK INDUSTRY AWARD

Port Moody export facility recognized as industry leader for Employee Development and Training

BRITISH COLUMBIA - Pacific Coast Terminals (PCT), located in Port Moody, British Columbia, has been awarded a prestigious International Bulk Journal (IBJ) Award which recognizes achievements by individuals and companies that improve and enhance efficiency, safety and environment protection in bulk terminals around the world. The award was presented at the International Bulk Journal (IBJ) Gala dinner at the Grand Elysée Hotel in Hamburg, Germany on November 19th, 2012.

PCT has won the People Development Award for their forward-thinking and their commitment to investing in their people operating in the bulk shipping or cargo handling business. Dedication to improved training for staff and development of progressive approaches has contributed to the overall business success at PCT.

“It is an honour to accept this recognition that acknowledges our commitment to our employees and the training they receive,” said Ken Catton, Vice President and General Manager of Pacific Coast Terminals. “We continually strive to be a leader in our field by investing in our staff and by setting a high standard of achievement for our company and its employees.”

Pacific Coast Terminals specializes in the handling of bulk solid sulphur and liquid glycol and has handled over 5 million tonnes of cargo on an annual basis making it the one of the world’s largest sulphur export facilities. The success of Pacific Coast Terminals’ operations has been recognized in the past through the receipt of additional IBJ Awards including the Environmental Protection Award in 2011 and the Safety in Bulk Handling Award in 2010.
